Tendency of the Teaching. We have said that the tendency of the teaching of Republican leaders, the constant off the gradual emancipation of slavery in ... definitely, and of making the condition of where it already exists; they merely pro- nal. test against its extension, and believe, doubt, less, that they are enlisted in a good cause. They are, unfortunately, associated with an equal if not greater number of impracticable men who do not stop at the accomplishment of the purposes they aim at. These latter do not believe that slavery will be extended into territory now free; there is no scarlet, Crimson, Salmon and all other fancy color Craps, Broche, and printed Shawis cleaned to order probability of any such thing, there is no danger whatever of it; and they feel this. They do not waste their efforts in fighting shadows, and hence their inteference with slavery where it does exist. These firepressible conflict" men uffhappity, are the leading men in the Republican organization; their teachings go out to the people as the true Republican doctrine, and unfortunately, a large portion of the party is impregnated with it, and labors for its advancement in the overthrow of slavery in the south. While the moderate men in the Republic can party are associated with the fanation for the real purpose of obtaining office, they are unable to check or control the leading element in the ranks. On the contrary, their HAS JUST RECEIVED A LARGE AND association with them is calculated to give respectability to the movements of the abolition-disunion sentiment, and thousands who would not touch the dangerous dogma, or assist in directing it to the accomplishment of such inevitable results as the Harper's Ferry affair, are induced to give aid to t because of the conservative element found in the organization. So long as moderate Republicans co-operate and work in the same organization with the Brown Repub. licans, they cannot escape the odium which justly attaches to the performances of the ultra Abolitionists. If they would, they must discard these mischief makers, and dis: claim their doctrines. They must not, simply for the sake of office, unite themselves with men who would dissolve the Union .-They must abandon the pernicious agitation of the Slavery question, and come before the people upon some reasonable, substantial issue, the discussion of which will not ignore the rights of a large portion of the Union, and endanger its stability. The plea that the Republican party is only bent upon preventing slavery from going into free territory, will no longer answer; there is no Asplendidassontment of Clath. ritory, will no longer answer, there is no danger of this, and every intelligent man in at the country feels and knows it. + If conservative Republicans would escape the imputation of keeping up the agitation of the negro question simply for the purpose of ob taining office, or of covertly favoring the designs of the abolitionists, they must abandon their dangerous shadows, and get to work on something tangible.

Old Brown's Tender Nature. The Detroit Free Press says the Black Republican sheets are endeavoring to excuse Old Brown for his treasonable and murderons deeds at Harper's Ferry, and to excite public sympathy in his behalf, by the representation that the loss of his two sons in Kansas made him crazy. He went to Kansas, so he told Mr. Vallandigham, not to settle, but to fight, and taking the chances of the fight he lost his two sons. But he had compensated himself for them, even beforehand, by killing half a dozan men on the other side. It is barely possible that the loss of his sons had made him crazy, but he had never before been suspected of such undue affection for his family that the loss of any one of them would affect him so seriously. Once while he was living in Ohio he became so angry with his old mother, who was residing with him, that he was fair ly beside himself with rage, and laid a villainous plan to rid himself of her. He placa can of powder in a place which -he was in the habit of frequenting, and laid a train some distance from it and sat down to await her coming. After some time she approach ed the spot, and he was in the very act of firing the train when some one, discovering his intention, rushed up and humanely knocked him down. This man, who actempted to blow up his old mother, the Black Republicans now say was made crazy by the loss of his two sons in a fight which he went all the way from Ohio to engage in.

death of an old miser named J. B Mantaign, who was found dead in his shop a few days ago. The deceased had been a resident of to $1,500.000. One of these was for discovering a supposed oure for cholers; another for furniture alleged to have been destroyed by a mob, and another for property belonging to him used in the making or extension of streets. He had placards in French. Spanish and Englis, bung up in his shop window, offering these claims for sale at enormous prices. The old man died of lockiew, alone, in his miserable little retreat.—It is believed he has large quantities of gold and silver hid away in his shop.
